

AI Tool Inventory

Company: [COMPANY NAME]

Inventory owner: [OWNER]

Last reviewed: [DATE]

Review cadence: Monthly or quarterly

Use this inventory to keep a simple record of which AI tools are being used, who owns them, and what data goes into them.

When to list a tool

List a tool if any of these are true:

- employees use it for work
- it produces text, code, images, audio, video, recommendations, scores, or decisions
- it has AI features turned on, even if AI is not the main product
- it connects to company systems such as email, files, CRM, code, HR, support, or finance systems
- a team member uses a personal AI account for company work

If you are not sure, list it and mark the status as Needs review.

Risk flags

Mark Needs review if any answer below is yes:

- Does the tool receive customer, employee, health, financial, biometric, children's, source-code, contract, or confidential data?

- Is the output shown directly to customers or the public?
 - Does the tool make or materially influence decisions about hiring, employment, lending, housing, healthcare, education, insurance, benefits, legal rights, or other important services?
 - Does the tool connect to internal systems or automate actions?
 - Does the vendor use your inputs to train models by default?
 - Is the vendor's data retention unclear?
 - Is there no obvious owner inside the company?

Monthly/quarterly review checklist

- ☐ Add any new tools employees started using.
 - ☐ Remove or mark retired tools no longer used.
 - ☐ Confirm owners are still correct.
 - ☐ Confirm data entered into each tool has not changed.
 - ☐ Confirm customer-facing or people-decision use has not started without review.
 - ☐ Follow up on every Needs review item.
 - ☐ Save the review date.
